

Feeding Your Interior Hunger

If you decided to throw a dinner party not in your home but for your home, what would you serve? Hungry for stirring menus that pair perfectly with a home's interior we headed off to visit the pros at Barbara-Jo's Books to Cooks.

Otto Lenghi's The Cookbook is designed for those with a palate for contemporary interiors.

The Whistler log home will fire-up appetites with recipes from A16: Food + Wine, by Nate Appleman. This cookbook is all about savouring rustic dishes with great friends.

If a Yaletown Loft is your entertaining backdrop then a natural choice has got to be 'hot off the press' Blue Water Cafe, Seafood by Frank Pabst. You can experiment at home preparing trout with chanterelle mushrooms or stroll down Hamilton Street to order off the menu.
